

What is the purpose of government?

If we consider a government to be the part of a living system which is expressed throughout the entire body, then a government serves the purpose of the nervous system and the circulatory system.

Which means that the purpose of a government, in general, is to provide channels for free flowing communication and resource distribution. Everything else is provided by smaller communities of individuals, doing whatever they are naturally inclined to do.

a healthy, whole, thriving planet!

Imagine what we'll be able to do when we have a system based on
